John McCain, the presumptive Republican nominee for president, is to be back in Michigan on Wednesday for fund-raising and campaign events.

The Arizona senator will travel with Sen. Joseph Lieberman of Connecticut, the former Democrat who ran as an independent in 2006 and has been an active supporter.

In addition to accompanying McCain to events in southeast Michigan, Lieberman will be involved in an event at the Holocaust Memorial Center in Farmington Hills to help attract the Jewish vote.

McCain is to be at three fund-raisers. Two are in Birmingham -- at the Townsend Hotel and at the Big Rock Chophouse. Another event is at the Shenandoah Country Club in West Bloomfield. None are open to the public.

He is to have another event during the daylong trip, but details of the visit weren't available Sunday evening.

The trip will be McCain's fourth to Michigan, a key battleground state, since mid-May.
